

GOP HIDDEN Attempt to Block Trump

Karen Hardin

Now that Donald Trump has been found guilty on felony charges, this opens the door to the next phase to prevent him from being president. What may surprise you is the work behind the scenes within the Republican Party to pass a resolution in lockstep with the court cases to block Trump.

Ivan Raiklin, a former Green Beret Commander and constitutional attorney, shared of a new behind-the-scenes attempt coming from within the Republican Party. In a private conversation last week, he met with several Oklahoma GOP leaders and shared details of this plan.

According to Raiklin, Reinhold "Reince" Priebus, who served as chairman of the Republican National Committee from 2011 to 2017 and also was the White House chief of staff during the first six months of Donald Trump's presidency, is working to submit a resolution to be voted on in the July 8 & 9 Republican Committee meeting summer session. The resolution, if passed, would prevent convicted felons from holding office.

Rep Marjorie Taylor-Greene also talked of the attempt to make Haley the Republican presidential candidate this past weekend on Steve Bannon's War Room.

This is how...

Hidden Rule Change

The resolution, if approved by the Rules Committee, would then be voted on by the Republican National Committeemen and women. That group is made up of just 168 people who would be eligible to vote that resolution in as a binding rule in the Party. If they can get it passed as part of the rules for the upcoming RNC in July, it would change the course of this election and our nation—completely bypassing the American voter.

Trump's sentencing has been set for July 11, just four days before the Republican National Convention. That was also intentional to set the stage for the introduction of this new possible rule—and for Nikki Haley—to emerge and make her the only eligible choice left. If that happens, the globalists, whose intent is to destroy America, won't care whether the Republican presidential candidate or the Democrat presidential candidate wins. Because at that point BOTH would be people working in conjunction with the globalist end goal—to remove God and America as a Republic.

If they are able to get this added to the GOP rules for the RNC, it would block Trump from being the Republican candidate when the Republican National Convention convenes in Milwaukee July 15-18 and open the path for a Nikki Haley/DeSantis ticket or for her to re-emerge.

Ironically on May 22, Nikki Haley finally gave her endorsement to Donald Trump in a move that seemed to be simply "smoke and mirrors" to appear as "for Trump/against Biden" even as she and her brother work to position her to be the candidate for the Republican National Convention. Just a few days before her endorsement of Trump, her brother, Mitti Randhawa, posted on Twitter, that they would be headed to Milwaukee for the Republican National Convention with “Haley for president. I’m writing in Nikki Haley—join me” and “Trump is a crook.”

If you remember, Haley simply suspended her campaign which would make her eligible to jump back in. It appears that may have been the plan all along.

Without a change, Trump will be the Republican presidential candidate garnering over 2231 delegates in the state primaries compared to 97 for Haley. The only way to prevent that is via this attempted rule change--or a hostile brokered convention/candidate write in.

While many conservative talk show hosts are discussing whether Trump will be put in prison or pointing to the Nov. 5 election as the most important issues, the real issue is the one underway which can’t be seen, as the GOP attempts to block Donald Trump as the Republican presidential candidate.
